ITEM 2 – PUBLIC COMMENTS/PRESENTATIONS

A. Public Comment: Mel Vernon, San Luis Rey Band of Mission Indians: Assembly Bill AB 2641 Native American Burial Grounds preservation currently being debated.

B. County Department of Parks and Recreation: Lynne Newell Christenson, County Historian:

- Archaeological Site CA-SDI-570 and 8463 - determined eligible for listing on the National Register and is listed on the California Register (Felicita Park). Consultant hired to prepare listing documentation; County Parks to prepare management plan
- Bancroft Rock House – County Parks has had funding reserved (CCHE grant application), for development of a Historic Structures Report; additional information is required for funds to be released. Carmen asked for clarification as to what Parks is proposing; is the funding to prepare the Rock house for nomination to the National Register? And would it include the archaeological site as well? She understood Lynne to say that it was for the Rock house only. Why not include the archaeological site? To clarify: The report given by Dr. Christenson was that funding from CCHE was reserved for the development of a Historic Structures Report (HSR), not preparation for National Register listing. This report would be a determination of the structural soundness of the structure, and whether or not additional work was required for stabilization. It is Park's intent to work toward National Register listing of both the Rock house and the archaeological site. Research Information from the HSR can be a part of the NR listing preparation. Parks has not yet determined whether the Rock house and the archaeological site will be listed together as a district, or separately. It will be some time in the future before work is started on the NR listing. Carmen also has concerns about the Bancroft archaeological site report that was completed due to the road trenching project. The report was extremely inadequate. One major concern is the fact that the area excavated, and detailed in the report, is a part of a much larger archaeological complex; this fact was not addressed in the report. In addition, there is a major concern that Native American ancestral remains were dug up and recovered because of road and utility improvements, would not be properly taken care of because of insufficient funding.
- Rancho Peñasquitos – listed on the National Register as a Historic and Archaeological District. Not yet a national landmark; that effort is next.
- San Luis Rey River Park – status report – EIR to go forward
- Whittaker House (Lakeside) and Derby Pendleton House (Old Town) – County Parks approved the grant match request for the Whittaker House, but not for the Derby Pendleton House. However, Parks was notified that the CA Heritage Fund grant was not approved.
- Camp Lockett: Concept site plan; Parks hoping to complete by the end of 2006.

C. Presentation: Susan M. Hector, Ph.D., Principal and Senior Archaeologist, ASM Affiliates, Inc. gave a presentation on PRESERVING CULTURAL LANDSCAPES. San Diego County is rich in 18,000 prehistoric and historic archaeological sites, such as Rancho Guejito, Tulloch Ranch (near Cuyamaca Lake), and Long Potrero (near Tecate). From California's first mission and presidio, to ancient sites over 8,000 years old, important and interesting cultural resources can be found throughout the region. Identifying evidence of historic and prehistoric human use of a landscape—the cultural landscape-- is as important to management of a nature preserve as identification of sensitive plants and animals, as human beings have always been an integral part of the ecology. During prehistory, humans altered the environment, and their cultural development was altered by that same environment. The integration of human and environment was seamless, and they used many places for hunting, seasonal gathering, “casual horticulture” (burning, pruning, weeding, transplanting), ceremonies, quarry areas, and seasonal camps. Some wild chokecherry, elderberry, agave, prickly pear, deer grass, juncus, and other stands are likely remnants of Indian plant culture.

ACTION ITEMS

ITEM 3 – KING RANCH HOUSE AT SUNNY VIEW ORCHARDS

Applicant: Ron V. May, RPA, Principal Investigator
Owner: Ziad Michel Khozam
Location: 1445 Navel Place, Escondido, CA 92027, APN 344-100-03-00
Community Planning Group: North County Metro (near Escondido)
Supervisor District: 5 – Bill Horn

Description: The King Ranch House is an important early 20th century example of a Southern California Ranch style architecture built as a private residence for the King family, important leaders in the development of Escondido's citrus agricultural industry in the County during the depression through World War II. Edwin and Jane King invested their savings from Hollywood film production into a 23-acre citrus orchard. The King's grew lemons and avocados around the ranch house, but the primary crops were Navel and Valencia oranges. The King' history at the ranch illustrates how citrus industry growers joined together from 1928 to 1956 to form packaging, shipping, and marketing cooperatives to process and distribute their goods to distant wholesale and retail outlets across America. The rustic Southern California “Ranch” architecture of the King Ranch House is further significant in that his house dates four years before Master Architect Cliff May debuted his now-famous Mexican hacienda Ranch style residence in the Kensington-Talmadge community of San Diego in 1932.

Meeting Notes: Owner Michel Khozam attended and briefly addressed the board. He responded to questions about who would do the restoration work, and about the landscaping. Applicant and Principal Investigator Ron V. May attended and was available to answer questions.

Board Action: Recommended placement of this house, on lot APN 344-100-03-00, on the Local Register of Historic Resources and for participation in a Mills Act Contract. The designation includes, in addition to the house, all landscaped area defined by the existing fence line. Staff finds this resource to be significant under item V (b1) of the Local Register that the resource is associated with events that have made a significant contribution to the broad pattern of San Diego County's history and cultural heritage, and item V (b3) of the Local Register that identifies a resource as significant if it embodies the distinctive characteristics of a type or period, San Diego region.

Motion by Vicki Estrada to approve

DISCUSSION ITEMS

ITEM 4 – RANCHO SANTA FE LILIAN RICE HOME

Description: Morris & Kathryn Nunn recently purchased this potentially significant 1926 Lilian Rice home. Von Marie May, Historical Consultant, on behalf of owners, determined through preliminary research that alterations were made by previous owners that may jeopardize historic designation. The purpose of this item is to discuss and obtain suggestions from HSB members as to appropriate remedies for these alterations, under the Secretary of the Interior's Standards and Guidelines.

Meeting Notes: This Lilian Rice House is a gem in the Rancho Santa Fe area that should be historically significant; however, modifications by previous owners changed the original design to the point where its integrity is questionable. The Board commented that renovation to take the house back closer to the original design would most likely make the house eligible for County landmarking and the Mills Act Contract.

ITEM 5 – WARNER'S RANCH HOUSE VS WARNER-CARRILLO RANCH HOUSE

Description: The Committee for the Historical Society Representatives from San Diego County On the True Location of Warner's Ranch House (the Committee) is requesting that the San Diego County Historic Site Board review the status of the "presently erroneously named" Warner-Carrillo Ranch House historical site, the original funding of which came from the County and the Vista Irrigation District for a "Warner's Ranch House" Restoration Project. The ranch house is within the Vista Irrigation District property. The Committee is requesting that the Board recommend an administrative review and provide specific recommendations, as suggested in the Committee's report, regarding this project. However, since there is no request from the Vista Irrigation District to landmark the ranch house at this time, the board will discuss the issue, but will not take action. The Committee was represented at the meeting by Chairman George Ellis.

Meeting Notes: All agree that the historic structures on the Warner Ranch are significant regardless of the name, and the main concern is to preserve these resources. The structures are currently identified as they are on the California Register and on the National Register of Historic Places, and an amendment would be required to make a name change. Any such change would have to be initiated by the property owner, the Vista Irrigation District. Currently, County Parks is under Memorandum of Understanding with the Vista Irrigation District to develop a restoration plan. No County funds have been expended and Warner Ranch is not a County Park. George Ellis addressed the Board; Richard Smith with the Westerners provided comments, and County Parks Historian, Lynne Christenson answered questions. The Board recommended that the Committee contact Vista Irrigation District.
